

Local Barbers “Cut” the Violence

Cut the violence -- or in one case -- shave the violence.

Three barbershops in Rochester teamed up to raise awareness and money for a camp for young people in jeopardy.

The barbershops, including one on Jefferson Avenue, cut the price on their haircut and donated the money to the Roland Williams Youth Lifeline Foundation.

"This particular time we found out that the Roland Williams Camp was in jeopardy of leaving Rochester due to lack of support," said Willie J. Lightfoot. "So we thought it would be a good idea to join together, give discounted haircuts, just this one time, in support of the Roland Williams Youth Lifeline Foundation." Williams is known off the field for his work with teenagers and trying to put them on the right path.
